

Adams Swings Into Lead For Sheriff With Margin Of 323 in 87 Precincts

Close Contest for District Attorney, With Brown Having Margin.

HOPE FOR "MOSE" HAINES

Connellsville Man Thrd for County Commissioner But Lead of John S. Langley Over Him Is Not Large; Smith Easy Winner for Treasurer.

Late returns, this afternoon, in the contest for sheriff in Fayette county showed a shifting of the balance from Peter M. Murphy in favor of John Q. Adams of Uniontown. Returns from 87 precincts out of 107, tabulated at 2:30 o'clock gave Adams a lead of 323 over the Connellsville police chief. The figures at that hour were:

	Adams	Murphy
Adams	4,628
Murphy		4,305

At the same time returns from 37 precincts gave Edward D. Brown a commanding lead over Davis W. Henderson for district attorney. The figures:

	Brown	Henderson
Brown	7,532
Henderson		7,014

Missing precincts included Jefferson township and part of Roddison. No further figures on other offices were available, attention being devoted to the leading contests.

With returns from 44 to 60 precincts out of 107 tabulated at noon the following results in Tuesday's primary election in Fayette county were outstanding:

Peter M. Murphy of Connellsville was leading the field of candidates for sheriff, running 409 votes ahead of John Q. Adams, the runner up, in 53 precincts.

E. D. Brown has a lead of 71 over Davis W. Henderson for district attorney, in 50 precincts.

A. M. Haines of Connellsville was third in the race for county commissioner, George W. Hibbs leading and John S. Langley running second. Haines was but 233 behind Langley in 46 precincts.

William C. Smith of Dunbar far outdistanced Johnathan Hare of Washington township for county treasurer. Edgar Powell of Connellsville is running ahead for recorder of deeds, with George C. Steele second and Mrs. Anna D. Schoonover of Connellsville third.

D. W. Smiley has a lead of 1,333 over Robert V. Wright for prothonotary and is assured of the nomination.

OKLAHOMA SOLONS DECIDE TO MEET IN DEFIANCE GOVERNOR

By United Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 19.—A call for a meeting of the legislature for Saturday to start impeachment proceedings against Governor Jack Walton was prepared today by members who oppose the executive's use of the military in his fight against the Ku Klux Klan.

At a conference of members of the opposition the state-wide martial law program decision was reached to meet in the face of the governor's threat that he would jail all legislators who attempted to assemble.

Sixty-five members of the legislature were reported to have agreed to sign the call for the impeachment session. Whether they will attempt to gather at the capital, which is guarded by armed state troops, was doubtful. Some discussion was heard of meeting in another city.

The decision to call the legislature into a session was reached following a statement by Summers Hardy, former chief justice of the Oklahoma Supreme Court, who advised the lawmakers that they were entitled to meet and advised them to defy the governor's military threat and gather in the face of the display of military force.

The governor and his supporters apparently were not greatly disturbed at the legislature's defiance.

Long lists of witnesses were summoned before the military court of inquiry and the inquirers expressed themselves as well satisfied over the evidence obtained although no hint of the testimony was made public.

The governor was highly elated over the action of the convention of the State Federation of Labor at Houston in endorsing his course.

Germany Ready to Give Up

By United Press.
BERLIN, Sept. 19.—(By Telephone to Paris).—Germany today proposed through the Belgian ambassador to drop passive resistance in the Ruhr under the sole condition that inhabitants of the occupied areas who have been expelled shall be returned and those arrested released. She also proposed to consider paying reparations of more than 30,000,000 gold marks, her previous maximum offer.

The primary election at South Connellsville has developed a dispute as to whether a Burgess should be chosen in November. On one side it is claimed the term of Burgess W. G. Koffer will expire next January and that a successor should be named. On the other side it is asserted that Mr. Koffer was elected two years ago for a term of four years. Mr. Koffer was included in office to fill out the unexpired term of Burgess John Wilder, because of Mr. Wilder's removal to Ohio, and after the court had failed to name a successor.

The names of Thomas C. Phallin and J. J. Evans, candidates for Burgess had been stricken from the ballot. At the primary yesterday that of Thomas C. Phallin, Republican, was written by 31 persons while J. J. Evans received one vote on the Democratic ticket.

New York Goes Through Another Paperless Day

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—New York's news-hungry millions found scanty tidbits today from the newspaper, famine caused by a strike of local pressmen. Early birds found a few copies of the city's foreign language papers, but these even disappeared like dew before the rising tide of humanity that descended on the newsdealers in search of news.

"The combined New York morning newspapers," were sold out almost before the new boys cut open the packages. The strike situation brought about by dissatisfaction with present working and wage conditions was practically unchanged this morning. The union, which ordered the strike, made no move to send the men back to work.

Major George L. Barry, president of the International Pressmen's Association of North America, who ordered the men back to work admitted this morning there had been no sign of response. Local union No. 27 was not to meet again until tonight so the city was set for another newspaperless day.

Mrs. Omer Wood Named For City Treasurer

LITTLE INTEREST IN DEMOCRATIC TICKET IN PRIMARY VOTING

There was only a light turnout of the registered Democrats, there being little competition on the ticket. John F. Hogsett, Jr., of Uniontown, the candidate for sheriff, easily ran ahead of his competitor, James Shannberger. Figures of all the wards except the Second, where the returns were missing this morning, showed Hogsett had a total of 473 in the city as compared to 31 for Shannberger.

Walter S. Rhodes for prothonotary, was without opposition, as was Robert Sample for county treasurer, J. Holmes Sangston for county controller, John F. McFarland for recorder of deeds, John L. Kintzer for director of deeds, John L. Hemington for coronator, Lewis C. Meichling for county surveyor, and Fred Robert Rhodes for city treasurer.

Rhodes polled a total vote in the city, exclusive of the Second Ward, of 413; Sample, 443; Sangston, 447; Robinson, 455; Schenck, 460; Miller, 462; McFarland, 453; Kintzer, 427; Hemington, 440; Meichling, 452; Robert, 465.

For county commissioner on the Democratic ticket J. Roy Henry of Dawson led with 30 votes. J. Sparrick Marshall was second with 31; Milton A. McCormick had 112; Daniel Dougherty, 93; and Effie H. McClelland, 55.

For school director James M. Kenna polled 433 votes, John McGoey had 16 and Charles B. Franks 44. For council J. A. Cypher and B. J. Berg led the ticket, the former getting 327 votes and the latter 338; Ralph J. St. Clair, the third candidate, got 196.

Ward's Admission He Lied Confuses The Prosecution

By United Press.
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The confused prosecution went to work today to build up a new case against Walter S. Ward, the millionaire baker's son who now is being tried for the murder of Clarence Peters, slain nearly a year and a half ago.

Ward smashed the heart of the prosecution's case when his counsel admitted that he deliberately lied when he said Peters was in a group of three who tried to kill him the night before the murder. This unexpected admission threw the state into confusion. The prosecution built up a strong line of witnesses who could testify as to Peters' whereabouts the night before the murder. They intended to show the jury that inasmuch as Ward lied about this important point he must be lying about the rest but their move was thwarted when Ward's attorneys decided it would be best to admit their client had lied in his previous stories of the affair.

Ward walked nervously into court this morning. He ignored the smiling greeting of his wife, although he looked directly at her. He gave no sign of recognition or acknowledgment of her presence. He showed plainly that the strain of the proceedings and the "lie" development had left its mark.

Britain Opposes Extension of Three-Mile Limit

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Great Britain has delivered to the United States a negative reply to the American proposal for a treaty extending the 12-mile limit to combat illicit liquor traffic. It was officially announced at the State Department today.

The British note was handed to Secretary of State Phillips by Charge D'Affaires Chilton of the British embassy. The note is understood to be principally recapitulation of the British government's objection to the American proposal.

The note sets forth at length the reasons why the British government believes that the American proposal would not be practicable. However, State Department officials said they did not regard the British note as a complete rejection of the American proposition.

Hundreds of Miles Of Smoking Timber Lands in California

By United Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Hundreds of miles of smoking timberlands or smoldering brush, guarded by thousands of fire fighters, marked the scene of the worst forest fire in California in history. The fires were believed under control early today.

Any renewed wind might start a dozen conflagrations, however, particularly in the northern part of the state where the forest fires were particularly severe. A dozen small towns in the north, many summer resorts, scores of ranches, and miles of forest land, were wiped out by the flames. In Berkeley, which suffered a loss of $10,000,000 through destruction of part of its finest residential section, the fires are out. No loss of life has been reported.

Decorate Your Rooms With Laurel Branches

Everyone realizes the great decorative value of cut flowers, and how much their presence adds to the charm of a room. Unfortunately, however, a writer in the Portland Oregonian, at certain times of the year, cut flowers are expensive and do not last long.

Laurel Branches.
One is therefore often obliged to do without them, no matter how welcome they would be. But there is another resource that can take the place of cut flowers to some extent—branches of laurel or bunches of laurel twigs.

Laurel is cheap and a good quantity can be purchased for a very little money. Placed in jars or vases of water it will last a long time. If the water is changed frequently, it will not only keep fresh for weeks at a time, but will sometimes throw forth new shoots.

In this way, at an insignificant cost, one can add to any room the grace and interest that only a living, branching thing will impart. Use jars or vases of agreeable color and of a proper shade to give support to the laurel. The green of the laurel leaves is of a virtually neutral hue and will look well with any surroundings or abounded against any background. Placed on a table before a mirror, or against a gray, yellow, blue or buff wall, for example, the laurel will fully justify its presence.

Poincare Talks With Baldwin on European Tangle

By United Press.
PARIS, Sept. 19.—There was no indication of an early renewal of Franco-British cooperation in settlement of the problem of German reparations following the conversation route between Premier Poincare and Prime Minister Baldwin this afternoon.

The two premiers discussed the whole European tangle for three hours, following the luncheon given by the French premier. Later a short statement was given out saying the conversations were held but little else.

The official French interpreter was the only person besides the premiers to attend the conference. Baldwin went immediately to confer with President Millerand at Rambouillet.

Karl in Auto Wreck.
William's auto, a 1924 model of Leckrone, suffered a serious accident and an injured child last night when his automobile skidded and went over an embankment. He was admitted to the Cottage State Hospital.

Singing is Half the Joy of Owning a Gulbransen

The songs you like best to hear, sung by some loved voice, to your own softly accented, perfectly timed accompaniment on a Gulbransen. There's genuine enjoyment for you!

Select your song rolls from the hundreds upon hundreds available, with the words already printed on them. The key they are pitched in doesn't matter. Too high? Too low? Just turn a knob. The Gulbransen instantly transposes.

An ordinary song roll may be played as a splendid and perfect accompaniment on the Gulbransen. The Gulbransen is a real joy to own. It is a real joy to play. It is a real joy to hear. It is a real joy to own. It is a real joy to play. It is a real joy to hear. It is a real joy to own.

"CONTINUOUS INVESTIGATION" OF THE COAL INDUSTRY.

The second part of the report of the United States Coal Commission to the President, dealing with Labor Relations in the Bituminous Industry, is even more prolix in its 77 pages of theorizing by so-called economic experts, who conducted the field investigations, and just as disappointing to the public, as the first part of the report which dealt with the various violations of civil rights by both the miners and the operators. It lacks vigorous condemnation of unjust, unfair and wrongful practices to the same extent as the first section showed an utter absence of courage in dealing with the Herriot massacre and the civil war conducted in West Virginia.

Both documents are masterpieces in sidestepping the fixing of responsibility, which the public was assured was to be one of the functions of the "fact finding" body. Both are marked with meticulous care in the matter of balancing every word of censure for one side with an equivalent denunciation of the other. The whole handling of the subject under review is of such character as to convey to the public the impression that the commission felt charged with the very solemn duty of giving serious offense to neither side. Although certain practices are condemned with a semblance of righteous indignation, the offenses of some elements are treated with so close an approach to apology as to give rise to the suspicion that favor instead of ill will is sought to be gained.

While a number of recommendations are made in the section of the report dealing with labor conditions, most of them seem to be in the nature of suggestions to the principal recommendation. This is that a process or agency of "continuous investigation" be inaugurated.

"Such continuous investigation," the report says, "should not be thought of as principally critical. Wisely administered, it would not be so much concerned with noting cases of bad practices as with noting those of the opposite sort. It should, however, be on the alert in discovering facts and conditions which, if not corrected, might result in conflict. An efficient agency for continuous investigation would tend to bring about such an exchange of information within management as to stimulate constantly improving practices and it would make the union more heedful that it now is of the public responsibilities that attach to its position of achieved power."

"The commission believes that the combination of continuous investigation and publicity with the possible resort to mediation at the instance of the President of the United States, will remove the necessity for more drastic emergency measures."

Although no details are specified as to how the "continuous investigation" is to be accomplished, there is in the very plain intimation that an agency for that purpose would have to be "created," inasmuch as the Coal Commission ceases its legal existence on September 22.

Summarized the report signally fails to clarify the situation. It falls sadly short of expectations as to the statement of facts and the suggestion of remedies. About the only concrete deduction offered in the words, documents is that still another body be created to conduct a "continuous investigation," which if no more definite and specific in its deliberations and conclusions than the expiring Coal Commission, will furnish fresh fuel to pile on the fires of hatred that have already burned too long.

What the industry and the public needs is a solution for the problems by which both are harassed, not a perpetual opening of old wounds or the creation of still more misunderstandings. That, unfortunately, is going to be one of the results of the inconclusive and disappointing reports the Coal Commission has thus far submitted. Its final report may be more opening sound suggestions as to remedies. If otherwise, the so-called "fact finding" body is destined to merit no more lasting tribute than has been accorded the scores of government investigating bodies that have preceded it in a kind oblivion.

Labor's Appeal to
The Injunction

Pittsburgh Gazette Times

A sign that in the future dependence is to be put in law where in the past reliance has been on force is to be read, we hope, in legal proceedings instituted last week in St. Paul, Minn. On application of the Northwest Federated Shopcrafts on the Great Northern System, Judge John H. Sanborn granted a temporary injunction restraining members of the Associated Organisation of Shopcraft Employees on the Great Northern from interfering with members of the petitioning organization in their employment in shops of the road. The applicant for whose relief the court acted with dispatch is a branch of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor. But recently it was "on the other end" of an injunction proceeding, the sweeping restraining order granted on petition of the United States Attorney General for protection of the railroads following the shopmen's strike of last year. At that time there was no limit, seemingly, to the denigration of "government by injunction," or "violation of constitutional rights" by the "to which the exploiters of unionism gave vent. Highly significant, then, is labor's present resort to the condemned process.

Of the merits of the American Federation of Labor members' cause we have no information, but that Judge Sanborn issued the temporary injunction as prayed for indicates clearly that they have ground for complaint and that they are entitled to legal protection. That they will get it in full measure is not to be doubted.

Injunctions customarily are granted in cases of exigency to put an end to wrongful acts, usually interferences with the legal rights of particular individuals or groups, or of the general public. While those who have felt the power of injunctions frequently have alleged the courts issuing them have usurped authority, this authority is derived from the common law. It constitutes an important, and often it is the only possible, safeguard of the weak. Unless labor becoming convinced that the instrument that has so often been employed to hold it within legal bounds may be satisfactorily used to protect it in the exercise of its unquestioned rights, and relying on the courts for justice, will find itself in better case with the people and better off materially.

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

THE GENTLEMAN.

I hold no brief for any man
By reason of his birth or station;
His creed, his politics or clan,
These may not pass examination.
But when I meet an honest soul,
Despite the odds which lie before him
Striving and fighting for a goal,
The world may know that I am for him.

I care not what his name may be,
Nor what may be his family record;
'Tis not his name that I desire to see,
'Tis not his name that I desire to record.
If he is kind to those in need,
Though many of social rank ignore him,
I'll praise him for his worthy deed
And let him know that I am for him.

He may not worship God as I,
He may not vote my party ticket,
But let me learn he scorns a lie
And I shall care a wooden plank
If in his coil and in his play
He takes no thought of the Scales may score him,
And has no better word to say,
I'll always be a booster for him.

When I discover one who lives
Not for himself and profit solely,
Who takes his share, but gladly gives,
Who is true to the great and lowly,
Is gentle where the odds are mean,
Though there be those who seek to
To such a man I'll always lean,
And such a man shall know I'm for him.

HALLOWEEN AT MOUNT PLEASANT ON OCTOBER 30

Fire Department Names Committee for the Annual Observance.

OTHER NEWS OF THE DAY

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Sept. 18.—The Mount Pleasant Volunteer Fire Department held its regular monthly meeting last evening at the borough building. The date for the annual Halloween celebration was set as October 30. The following committees have been chosen to serve for the celebration: Chief Marshal, A. R. Gearhart; parade committee, William Overholt, John Nixon and James B. Braddock; dance, Frank R. Simpson, F. Stohl and John Kortright; prizes, Dr. W. A. Marsh, Charles Brier and Harvey Long; advertising, Lloyd Shaw, Charles Spangler and Edward King; soliciting, Joseph B. Coldsmith, Harry McIndoo, James Olinger, Mr. Strubbe, John Shank, F. E. Painter and C. Myers.

The women also discussed cars following the fire truck to fires. An example will be made of drivers if they do not get out of the habit of crowding in and following the truck to fires.

Patrick Doyle Dies.
Patrick Doyle, 27 years old, died yesterday at his Standard home. Funeral services were held this morning at 9 o'clock at the St. Joseph's Church and interment will follow in the St. Joseph's Cemetery. Besides his father and mother he is survived by three brothers, Robert of Edenborn, William of Palmer and George at home, and three sisters, Mrs. Kate Henessey of High House and Mrs. Thomas Steiner and Mrs. Lillian Stock of Greensburg.

Michael Anthony Dead.
Funeral services were held at the Slavish Church yesterday morning at 9 o'clock for Michael Anthony, 38 years old, who died at Bradock on Sunday. Interment followed in the Slavish Cemetery. Funeral Director J. W. Reichman had charge of the funeral.

Better Health for Women.
Any woman who will stop and consider the result of a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., will in all fairness admit the value of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Fifty thousand replies were received, and 93 out of every 100 women stated they had been benefited or restored to health by its use. This means better health for American women. It will surely pay any woman who suffers from any ailment or weakness peculiar to her sex to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.—Advertisement.

NEW GAUGE OF HORSEPOWER

Method of Showing the Relation Between It and a Kilowatt Has Been Devised.

More than 100 years ago James Watt took the strength of a "strong London draft-horse" as a unit of measurement to indicate the power of his steam engine. This unit, which was the amount of energy that would raise 25,000 pounds one foot in one minute, he called one horsepower.

Electric motors, automobile engines and all other forms of energy-producing machinery have been measured in terms of Watt's horsepower ever since, says a bulletin of the New York State Committee of Public Utility. The "strong London draft-horse" is dead as Eolippus and his bones are dust, but his mighty thighs have been so imbedded in tradition that from that time to this no one has questioned the horsepower of a horse.

Now the unit of measurement, originally taken from a horse, is to be used to measure the strength of other horses, so to determine, in terms of mechanical horsepower, how strong they are. There has been designed a wagon, the wheels of which are geared to a hydraulic pump by means of which any required pull can be established and a uniform load resistance maintained. To this wagon will be harnessed various types of horses, from the lordly Percheron, weighing a full ton, to the 900-pound light-harness horse, and from the results there will be established a ratio between weight and strength similar to the tables for electric motors, showing the number of horsepower delivered for every kilowatt of energy consumed.

BAKERS DROP LOTUS LEAVES

Shanghai Government Forces Them to Use Waxed Paper for Wrapping Their Products.

Shanghai bakers used to wrap their bread and cakes in nice green lotus leaves. But the days of this romantic practice are gone forever. According to the new regulations covering bakery products, bread and other products must be suitably wrapped in greaseproof or similar papers. The clause in the regulation covering this particular requirement quoted by Assistant Trade Commissioner A. V. Smith in a report to the Department of Commerce, reads as follows: "That bread and bakery products shall, upon sale or when carried or handled for sale, or delivered in baskets, vehicles or otherwise, be suitably wrapped in greaseproof paper or other equally covering, in such manner as to completely protect the bread from dirt, dust and flies, or from harmful contact in handling."

Now Senate Lacks Octogenarian.
The death of Senator William P. Dillingham of Vermont removes from the senate rolls the last octogenarian. And on March 4, when congress adjourned, there were three.

Senator Page, also of Vermont, who was eighty last January, retired on that date.

Knute Nelson of Minnesota, three weeks younger than Page, died in May on his way from Washington to his home.

And Dillingham, midway in his eightieth year, died early in July.

Removal of these octogenarians from the senate leaves Francis B. Warren of Wyoming, now one month past seventy-nine, the oldest member. Next comes LeBaron Colt of Rhode Island, seventy-seven; then Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, a youngster of seventy-three, third; Lodge of Massachusetts, three months younger than Cummins, fourth.

Denmark's Alphabetical War.
There is a battle of the big and little letters now raging in Denmark. The Danish language, like the German, has hitherto adhered to the Middle-Age practice of spelling its nouns with capital letters, but a progressive movement of growing strength demands the substitution of the little letters in conformity with English, French and other languages. The demand has aroused the fury of the conservative elements.

Now Minister of Education Appel has determined to introduce the small-letter practice in the schools. As in the Bolshevik reform of the Russian orthography and the Bulgarian changes, the big letter and the small letter have become symbols of political opinion.

Somewhat Mixed.
The justice of the peace in a town in Ohio, in pursuance of his duties, had to hear and judge the cases that were brought before him and also to perform occasional marriage ceremonies. He found it difficult to disassociate the various functions of his office.

Everything had gone smoothly until he had asked one bride: "Do you take this man to be your husband?"

"The bride nodded emphatically. "And you, accused," said the justice, turning to the bridegroom, "what have you to say in your defense?"

Japanese Editors Poorly Paid.
Japanese newspaper men work for small salaries, but efforts are being made by prosperous newspapers in Osaka to elevate the standard.

The Osaka Mainichi, which has a daily circulation of about 800,000, has made substantial increase in its existing scale of salaries. Together with a bonus distributed twice a year, actual pay is two to three times the specified salary.

Young and Inexperienced.
When I was a bride I went into a shop to purchase socks for my husband. I was young and unaccustomed to buying men's wear, and was at a loss when the salesman inquired what size I wanted.

"I didn't have the slightest idea, but suddenly I said, 'I don't remember what size his socks are, but he wears a number fifteen collar.'"

The clerk and all other people in the shop burst out laughing.—Exchange.

Japanese Beetle Quarantine on Farm Crops Is Lifted

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18.—Farm produce, through the recent removal of Japanese beetle quarantine regulations by the State and Federal Departments of Agriculture, is now permitted free and unrestricted movement in and out of the infested area in New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

"The beetle had an early start this spring," said Charles H. Hadley, director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Plant Industry, "and the active season of the adult beetles now coming to an end it is deemed safe to take this step. The lifting of the quarantine regulations on farm crops for this year permits a free shipping period until June 15, 1924."

The removal order applies only to products of the farm and not to nursery stock. The principal products affected by the order are green, sweet or sugar corn, cabbage, lettuce and grapes and pathed grasses, straw and forage crops.

1924'S FINEST PERFORMER

—test the new motor on any hill you know

OF the many improvements in the 1924 Cleveland Six, most important is a new, more powerful motor—the finest of its size ever placed in a motor car.

Put it to any power test you know. Learn for yourself what Cleveland engineers have long since demonstrated in competitive performance tests: that the 1924 Cleveland not only out-performs by a decisive margin all sizes of its size and price class, but shows a marked supremacy over dozens of cars that are bigger and more costly.

Until you have ridden in the 1924 Cleveland, you cannot conceive what a marvelous range of hill and traffic performance is now to be obtained in a six that costs so little and is still so beautiful, so roomy and comfortable, so easy to operate and so economical to own!

ARMY NEEDS MEN—PERSHING

Instructs Commanders to Take Action to Fill Ranks.

General Pershing, in a letter issued from Washington to commanding generals of all corps areas, gives some figures on the expected losses in enlisted personnel during the next six months. "I wish to call your attention to the estimated losses that will occur in the enlisted personnel of the army during the next six months," he said.

General Pershing, "They are as follows: August, 7,501; September, 6,955; October, 7,518; November, 8,983; December, 10,595; January, 11,542.

"The present actual strength of the army is about 118,000, and the recruiting service is obtaining about 4,000 men per month. Unless enlistments are materially increased the army will find itself next January reduced to a point which will seriously affect the proper training of our citizen soldiers."

"In addition to increased effort for the enlistment of new men in the service by the use of additional canvassers, etc., organization commanders must take energetic action to obtain the re-enlistment of men to be discharged."

HARD TO GET WHALE EXPERT

England Unable to Find Leader for Expedition.

An offer of a thousand pounds a year, with free food and lodging and plenty of adventure thrown in is going begging because England has no modern Jonah who knows whales intimately.

Last month the colonial office in London advertised for a "director of research" to take charge of a scientific expedition that is scheduled to start next spring for the Falkland Islands to study aquatic mammals and their habits. So far not a suitable application has been received.

The purpose of the expedition is to obtain data from which to frame legislation to prevent the disappearance of whales. The scientists will endeavor to learn whether they are polygamous how long they live, where they spend the winter and what their annual migrations.

It seems that the waters off the Falkland Islands are a fashionable summer whaling resort; but in winter the mammals disappear. Inasmuch as the islands are largely dependent upon the whaling industry the British government would like to know when they go.

Scott's historic ship "Discovery" will carry the expedition, which will be gone two and a half years.

Health Insurance

for the Whole Family

Without counting the daily utility of a Chevrolet for going back and forth to work, shopping or taking the children to school, etc., its value in saving doctor's bills, broadening your mental horizon and keeping the whole family physically fit, amounts to more than the cost of the car and its upkeep.

It is more of an essential to the modern family than anything else but a home.

Chevrolet meets the requirements of the modern family because it is economical to buy and maintain, because of its excellent appearance and riding comfort, because it can be depended upon, and because it is so easy to drive that any member of the family can use it.

ABE MARTIN

On Extravagant Speech

AN EVERY DAY STREET SCENE IN THE U. S.

When Miss Tawney Apple returned from a Ford ride the other evening, she remarked, "It was simply wonderful. The way the word 'wonderful' is being abused and abused these days calls for a stage rebuke. Even old Jake Bentley that lives almost three miles off the road has caught on. We asked him how his wife's liver was acting this summer, and he said, 'Well, sir, it's just wonderful.' The expression, 'Fine as a dandy' had a long run, but is still encountered now and then in the sparsely settled river counties and on dollar excursions. As strange as it may seem the expression found its greatest popularity among those who looked just the reverse of fine and dandy. Generally the folks that speak of a 20-cent dinner, or a some certain dandruff cure, as being simply wonderful are usually folks that have never been beyond the confines of their own township. Still we wuz talkin' 'a woman the other day that had been around the world and she referred to a new egg lither she'd bought as the most wonderful thing she had ever seen. But ever'body's overworkin' 'wonderful.' The film wuz wonderful, the cantaloupe is wonderful, the clerk wuz wonderful, the trip to Carmel wuz wonderful, the new baby is wonderful, the rain, an' even the soup, wuz wonderful. These things might be good, or nice, or tolerable, or out o' the usual, or even extraordinary, but they all come many leagues from even approachin' the wonderful. Think of a tall, brown, beautiful, well educated an' refined young miss sayin', 'The hogana' wuz perfectly wonderful.' People's return from a picnic. 'Think o' classin' hogana' right along with Niagara Falls or the seven Butchered sisters. Our real wonders are very few, numberin' we believe, not mos'ly seven, includin'

th' collossus at Rhodes, th' hangin' gardens of Babylon an' th' temple of Artemis at Ephesus. We have many things borderin' on the wonderful, but exceptin' a really good cantaloupe, there's nothin' to eat among 'em. We have some trips that are quite unusual, but they got in Indiana. We have some exceptional sun rises, very toothsome ice cream an' hogana, but they not wonderful by a long shot. Loopin' th' loop on a bicycle is wonderful, an' how some people get by comes dangerously near bein' wonderful, but there's nobuddy unakin' wonderful speeches, writin' wonderful books, or sayin' wonderful fool, an' ther' hain't nothin' wonderful in th' whole United States but Niagara Falls. But this is an age of extravagance, not alone in money expenditures, but in terms of expression as well.

ONE IN EVERY FOUR PERSONS IN STATE IN SUNDAY SCHOOL

Great Convention Planned For Williamsport, Oct. 10, 11, 12.

SPLENDID PROGRAM

The current magazines and daily press have recently had very much to say concerning the importance of Christian Education. It is becoming more and more a subject for discussion. Leaders in commercial, economic and political life recognize the fact that unless there is a background of right motives no real leadership can be developed in America.

The need is also being met by better teaching, better equipment, and better curricula.

Effective Organization.

The Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, which will hold its convention in Williamsport, October 10-11-12, is a State-wide organization.

DR. MARION LAWRENCE

Consulting General Secretary International Sunday School Council of Religious Education, Chicago, Ill.

which seeks to quicken the life of every one of the eleven thousand Protestant Sunday Schools within its borders. The Association has succeeded in creating live missionary organizations in every one of the sixty-seven counties of the State.

It has also succeeded in causing the county organizations to sub-divide their territory into more than nine hundred active District Associations, with an average of thirteen schools to district. Through this scheme of organization every school in the State is reached and influenced for improvement in its equipment, its management, its teaching methods, and this solely for the purpose of producing better Christian Education and training. It is an international, denominational activity, working in perfect harmony with the denominational activities of the various Sunday schools.

Among the prominent organization leaders who will be present at the Williamsport Convention is Dr. Hugh S. Martin, General Secretary of the International Sunday School Council of Religious Education; Dr. Marion Lawrence, of Chicago, Consulting General Secretary of the International Sunday School Council of Religious Education; Dr. W. L. Leavelle, General Secretary of the World's Sunday School Association; F. G. Orwig, Superintendent of the Young People's Division of the International Sunday School Council of Religious Education; and Dr. W. Edward Rafferty, of the American Baptist Publication Society, a member of the Executive Committee of the International, and a great leader in educational programs.

Among the special organization features of this convention will be the awarding of bachelors to the county organizations which have achieved 100 per cent in organization efficiency; the awarding of service medals to those who have served for fifty years continuously as teachers in the Sunday School; the awarding of banners for special efficiency in divisional work to counties.

Special railroad rates of a fare and a half for the round trip have been secured through the Tri-Link Line Association, and delegates will be furnished with railroad tickets which will enable them to purchase these tickets from their local agent.

The Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association is one of the few associations which has not been seriously handicapped by financial difficulties. The whole work of the Association is managed by a board of twenty-five directors, who are all business men, and give of their time and experience to make possible the economic and efficient administration of the work. A staff of seventeen field and office assistants carry on the work.

This convention will be held in the Pine Street Methodist Church in Williamsport, which is probably the finest convention hall in the State, having a seating capacity of twenty-eight hundred.

Poetry as It is Lived.

In his "Human Traits and Their Social Significance," Irvin Edman writes:

"Men may first have come to speak poetry accidentally, for language arose, like other human habits, as a thing of use. But the charming and delightful expression of feelings and ideas came to be cherished in themselves, so that what was first an accident in man's life has become a deliberate practice.

"When this creation of beautiful objects, or the beautiful expression of feelings or ideas is intentional, we call it art.

"In such intentional creation and cherishing of the beautiful, man's life becomes enriched and emancipated. He learns not only to live, but to live beautifully."

COKERS WILL BE READY TO MEET YOUNGWOOD HIGH

Everything is set for the opening football game of the Connellsville High School season, when the locals will meet the Youngwood High team on Fayette field Saturday afternoon. Little or nothing is known about Youngwood but it was rumored some time ago, that the Youngwood team would be on par with Greensburg High.

A big crowd is expected to attend to look the boys over. The team will present a fine appearance as all will have new uniforms, with solid orange jerseys. Robert Belanna, manager, has been putting up posts all week and will have ropes stretched from one end of the field to the other to keep the crowd back.

FOSSILS FROM THE ICE AGE

Czech Scientist Discovers Variety of Man, Woman and Great Variety of Animals.

Skeletons of prehistoric man and woman from the ice age, a mammoth, two lions, a hyena, a wolverine, five cave bears and at least fifty fossil beavers have been found in the vast system of underground passages formed by nature in the limestone rock of central Moravia now being explored by Dr. Karel Absolon, curator of the Brno museum of Czechoslovakia. Dr. Absolon of the United States Smithsonian Institution, will report these discoveries in a communication to the next issue of Science.

The skeletons of many of these mammals of the glacial period of the earth's history are in an excellent state of preservation, he says. The cave bears' remains are almost complete and will be mounted as a group in the Provincial museum at Brno (Brün), while the teeth and skulls of the beavers are also considered of highest scientific value.

HIS FIRST ATTEMPT AT WORK

Curious Experience of College Student Who Was Trying to Earn Money for Expenses.

Many students attending the universities of Indiana pay part of their college expenses by doing odd jobs. Several years ago a young man applied at the Y. M. C. A. employment office of one of the universities and asked for work. He was directed to the home of one of the professors.

His first duty was to mop the kitchen floor. Mrs. H. supplied a mopstick, some rag and a bucket. She was upstairs sewing a few minutes later when he called, "What shall I do with the water?"

"Throw it out."

"But I can't."

She came down to investigate. She found the kitchen floor flooded and the new helper standing on a chair holding the dry rag and the empty bucket. He explained that he had never mopped a floor before, so he had tilted the bucket with water about eight times and emptied it on the floor.

The young man is now a practicing physician in Indianapolis.

Of Interest to Fans.

The Pittsburg Pirates came to yesterday and walloped the Braves by the score of 12-2. Johnny Morrison and his famous jump-handle curves held the Braves at his mercy. Johnny scored his 23rd triumph of the year. Rains in Cincinnati kept the Reds idle, the Braves thereby gaining. The New York Giants, however, handed the Cardinals a setback, in St. Louis, still holding their advantage of five and one-half games over Pittsburg.

"Shimmy-Queen" Divorces Hubby Who Sued Dempsey For Stealing Her Heart

BEE PALMER; INST. JACK DEMPSEY.

NEW YORK—Just because he connected her name with that of Jack Dempsey, the knockout king, Bee Palmer, who has quite a reputation herself as a "shimmy queen," has divorced her husband, Al Siegel.

About a year ago Miss Palmer awoke one morning to find her picture plastered all over newspapers from coast to coast in connection with her husband's suit for $100,000 against the heavyweight champion, charging alienation of his wife's affections.

Bee's shoulders shivered, but not with aversion. Race was much nearer the sentiment they expressed, and she bled herself to the Chicago divorce courts, where an obliging judge has just given the jealous Mr. Siegel his matrimonial "walking papers."

War Flame Again Flares Up Over Italian Action

By United Press.

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Renewed threat of a Balkan war was seen here today in the action of Italy in appointing General Giardini as virtual military dictator of Rome, following resignation of the regent.

Dispatches from Belgrade said the Italian action has aroused intense feeling. Jugo-Slavia was planning a blockade of Fiume from the land side as its first move against Giardini's regime.

Meanwhile Bulgaria claims a Jugo-Slav invasion of Bulgarian territory is threatened. The Bulgarian charge d'affaires, M. Borlof, arrived last night from Geneva to seek Allied intervention against the alleged threatened military action. He charged there are four divisions on the Bulgarian frontier. Bulgaria intends to appeal to the League of Nations.

Pressmen's Strike Ties Up New York City Newspapers

By United Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—New York city awoke to find its morning paper missing from the doorstep.

A strike of 2,500 members of the Newspaper Web Pressmen's Union, Local 26, early today tied up practically every daily in New York City. An exception was the New York Call, the Socialist daily. The walkout came as the culmination of 18 months of bitter strife over wages and working conditions.

A compromise was later effected whereby afternoon papers of Greater New York permitted to publish included the New York Commercial, the Bronx Home News, the Harlem Home News and the Brooklyn Times.

Finding of Peters' Body Is Described

By United Press.
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The man who first found the bullet-pierced body of young Clarence Peters lying beside an obscure tomb in the Bronx was heard when the murder case against Walter S. Ward, the millionaire baker's son, opened today.

Duncan Ross, the first witness for the prosecution when the actual trial got under way, described how he came on the dead form of Peters as he was driving to work early on the morning of May 18, 1923.

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"SHOOTIN' LOVE," showing today and tomorrow at this theatre, presents Hoot Gibson in the stellar role.

The story has its setting in the Texas cattle country and involves the experiences of Duke Travis, a cowboy son of a Texas cattlemen of the old school, who has just returned from a sojourn with the A. E. F. in the World War. The youth saw action in some of the most bitter engagements on the western front, but never received a scratch, except one that was hidden, though indelibly stamped within his being, "shell-shock."

Duke returned and was greeted in a regular western manner. When they were alone in the ranch house the old cattlemen told his son of his trouble with Randolph and asked the boy to buckle on his "six-gun" and force a fighting showdown with the rival ranch owner on the water question.

A chance revolver shot near Duke threw him into an uncontrollable panic of fear and he ran from the scene like a boy from a bee's nest.

How the youth was misunderstood and virtually disowned by his father until he has finally restored to normalcy and his old fighting sob, by a giant explosion presents one of the most human and realistic stories ever written.

Friday and Saturday Dick Hatton will be seen in "The Love Test."

The Soisson

"WITHIN THE LAW," featuring Norma Talmadge, popular screen actress in the role of Mary Turner, continues to attract large crowds at this theatre. The last performance will be tonight.

The picture, which was made under the direction of Frank Lloyd, is described as being by far the most dramatic of its kind. Miss Talmadge has yet done for the screen. Surrounded by a cast of unusual distinction she portrays the stellar role of Mary Turner, made famous on the stage by Jane Cowl.

The part gives Miss Talmadge an extraordinary chance to demonstrate her exceptional ability as an emotional actress.

The heroine is a shop girl who is sent to prison for a theft she did not commit. In demanding that she get the thing, Edward Gilder, department store owner, explains that he wants to make an example of Mary. On her release, vowing vengeance, she joins a gang of black-mallors on condition that she operate only "within the law." Her specialty is breach of promise suits. How she takes advantage of an opportunity that presents itself when she meets Dick Gilder, son of her arch enemy, becomes involved in an extraordinary romance and a police frame-up, squares herself with the world and finally finds true happiness, is unfolded vividly on the screen.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday Jack Holt will appear in "A Gentleman of Leisure."

The Orpheum

"LAWFUL LARCENY," a Paramount picture, with Nita Naldi, Hope Hampton, Conrad Nagel and Lew Cody in the stellar roles, is the feature attraction today at this theatre.

The story concerns a young wife who on returning from a trip abroad finds that her husband has fallen into the clutches of a designing woman and her male accomplice, and has given an I. O. U. for a large amount. The wife sets about to get back his money, as well as her husband's I. O. U., and thereby saves his honor.

How she succeeds is interestingly shown in the ensuing scenes of the picture, in which Miss Hampton, in the role of Marion Dorsey, manages in a decidedly novel manner to effect an acquaintance with Guy Tarlow, accomplice of Vivian Hopburn, the modern Cleopatra, who has Marion's husband under her thumb, and through him is brought to Vivian's gambling rooms. Matters start to turn when the latter learns the identity of this new visitor.

"Lawful Larceny" is the last word in lavish costuming and elaborate settings. There are some special dance numbers that are real knock-outs in themselves. The atmosphere of ancient Egypt is introduced by means of a prologue, in which Nita Naldi is seen as Cleopatra. In addition to the four featured players, the cast includes Russell Griffin, Yvonne Hughes, Dolores Costello, Gilda Gray, Florence O'Denishawn and Alice Hanson.

Upholding American Ideals

THE railroad transportation systems of this country have been an important element in making America the greatest nation in the world. The country-wide service provided by these great arteries of commerce has enabled America to maintain its commercial supremacy.

The railroads of America are performing each day and night a vital service—close to the lives of the American people—for whether it be through the transportation of passengers or freight the people are dependent on that service for their very existence.

The prosperity of the people and the continuance of the nation of the Transportation Act of 1920—under which the railroads are reorganizing from the effects of war-time operation—is therefore of urgent importance to the people as well as to the railroads.

America's railroads are the finest and most efficiently operated in the world and in supporting them the people of this country are upholding American ideals. The future of our great railroad systems is linked closely with the future of America.

Through a Sieve Woven Finer Than Silk

Raw materials of which portland cement is made come out of the ground usually as solid rock.

They must first be crushed, ground and reground until at least 85 per cent of the resulting powder will shake through a sieve that will actually hold water.

This sieve is considerably finer than the finest silk fabric. It has 200 hair-like bronze wires to the inch. That means 40,000 holes to the square inch.

But the several crushings and grindings necessary to reduce solid rock to this extreme fineness are only the beginning of cement making.

The powdered materials must then be subjected to intense heat for several hours in huge rotary kilns. Here they are half melted and become a substance much harder than the original rock—clinker, it is called.

Then the clinker must be crushed and ground until at least 78 per cent of the resulting product will pass through the sieve woven finer than silk. This is portland cement.

More than 80 power and fuel consuming operations are necessary in cement making. The electric power alone used in producing a barrel of portland cement would, if purchased at usual household rates, cost $1.70.

Few manufactured products go through so involved or complicated a process as portland cement. And it sells for less per pound than any comparable manufactured product.

THREE MEN AND A MAID

"Not by a mile!" She purred, her chin in her hand. "Of course, he was quite a dear in a lot of ways."

"Oh, a splendid chap," said Sam tentatively.

"Have you ever heard him sing? I think what first attracted me to him was his beautiful voice. He really sings extraordinarily well."

A slight but definite spasm of jealousy afflicted Sam. He had no objection to praising poor old Eustace within decent limits, but the conversation seemed to him to be continuing itself too exclusively on one subject.

"Yes?" he said. "Oh, yes, I've heard him sing. Not lately. He does drawing-room ballads and all that sort of thing still, I suppose."

"Have you ever heard him sing 'My love is like a glowing tulip that in an old-world garden grows'?"

"I have not had that advantage," replied Sam stiffly. "But anyone can sing a drawing-room ballad. Now something funny, something that will make people laugh, something that really needs putting across."

"That's a different thing altogether."

"Do you sing that sort of thing?"

"People have been good enough to say—" because aware that it was his cousin, Samuel Martlow. As in the historic case of father in the pigsty, he could tell him by his hat. But why was he looking like that? Was it simply, some trick of the uncertain light, or was his face really black and had his mouth suddenly grown to six times its normal size and become a vivid crimson?"

Sam turned. He had been looking at himself in the mirror with a satisfaction which, to the casual observer, his appearance would not have seemed to justify. Eignett had not been suffering from a dolous. His cousin's face was black; and, even as he turned, he gave it a dab with a piece of burnt cork and made it blacker.

"Hello! You awake?" he said and switched on the light.

Eustace Eignett awoke like a startled horse. His friend's profile, seen dimly, had been disconcerting enough. Full face, he was a revolting object. Nothing that Eustace Eignett had encountered in his recent dreams—and they had included such unusual fauna as elephants in top hats and running shorts—had affected him so profoundly. Sam's appearance smote him like a blow. It seemed to take him straight into a different and dreadful world.

"What . . . what . . . what . . . ?" he gurgled.

Sam acquiesced at himself in the glass and added a touch of black to his nose.

"How do I look?"

Eustace Eignett began to fear that his cousin's reason must have become unseated. He could not conceive of any really sane man, looking like that, being anxious to be told how he looked.

"Are my lips red enough? It's for the ships' concert, you know. I start in half an hour, though I believe I'm not on till the second part. Speaking as a friend, would you put a touch more black round the ears, or are they all right?"

Curiously replaced apprehension in Eignett's mind.

"What on earth are you doing performing at the ship's concert?"

"Oh, they roped me in. It got about somehow that I was a valuable man and they wouldn't take no." Sam deposited the color of his ears. "As a matter of fact," he said casually, "my fiancée made rather a point of my doing something."

A sharp yell from the lower berth proclaimed the fact that the significance of the remark had not been lost on Eustace.

"Your fiancée?"

"The girl I'm engaged to. Didn't I tell you about that? Yes, I'm engaged."

Eustace sighed heavily.

"I feared the worst. Tell me, who is she?"

"Didn't I tell you her name?"

"No."

"Curious! I must have forgotten." He hummed an airy strain as he blackened the tip of his nose. "It's rather an outlandish coincidence, really. Her name is . . ."

"What's her first name?"

"That is another rather remarkable thing. It's Wilhelmina."

"Wilhelmina?"

"Of course, there must be hundreds of girls in the world called Wilhelmina Bennett, but still it is a coincidence."

"What color is her hair?" demanded Eustace Eignett in a hollow voice.

"Her hair? Now, let me see. You ask me what color is her hair. Well, you might call it auburn . . . or russet . . . or you might call it . . ."

"Never mind what you might call it. Is it red?"

"Red? Why, yes. That is a very good description of it. Now that you put it to me like that, it is red."

"This is a trick of grabbing at you suddenly when you get excited, like a kitten with a ball of wool?"

"Yes, yes, she has."

Eustace Eignett uttered a sharp cry. "Sam," he said, "can you bear a shock?"

"I'll have a dash at it."

"Brace up!"

"The girl you are engaged to is the same girl who promised to marry me."

"Well, well," said Sam.

"There was a stillness."

"Awfully sorry, of course, and all that," said Sam.

"Don't apologize to me!" said Eustace. "My poor old chap, my only feeling toward you is one of the purest and profoundest pity." He reached out and patted Sam's head. "I regard you as a tomb beneath the hurly."

"Well, I suppose that's one way of offering congratulations and cheery good wishes."

"And on top of that," went on Eustace, deeply moved, "you have got to sing at the ship's concert."

"Why shouldn't I sing at the ship's concert?"

"My dear old man, you have many worthy qualities, but you must know that you can't sing. You can't sing for nuts! I don't want to discourage you, but long ago as it is, you can't have forgotten what an awfully madman of yourself at that snapper at school. Seeing you up against it like this, I regret that I threw a lump of butter at you on that occasion, though at the

The funeral of the late John Thomas was held at Maple Summit, Sunday afternoon in the church cemetery.

HAIRBOW MODES AT THE BIRTHDAY PARTY

One would be justified in thinking this party a sort of competition in which the prize goes to the maid with the most becoming hairbow, were it not for the eight candles on a cake, indicating that it's somebody's birthday. Fulle, satin and novelty ribbons in pastel shades rule the day in children's hairbow fashions.

CHAPTER V

"Good G-d!" cried Eustace Eignett.

He stared at the figure which loomed above him in the fading light which came through the perthole of the stateroom. The hour was seven-thirty and he had just woken from a troubled sleep, full of strange nightmares, and for the moment he thought that he must still be dreaming, for the figure before him could have walked straight into any nightmare and no questions asked. Then suddenly he

BUSINESS: West Penn Power Company supplies electricity for light, heat and power purposes in 383 cities, towns and communities having a population in excess of 500,000.

TERRITORY: The territory which the Company is authorized to serve exceeds 5,000 square miles and is situated from 3 to 60 miles from the city of Pittsburgh, comprising all or parts of the Counties of Allegheny, Armstrong, Butler, Clarion, Fayette, Greene, Indiana, Washington and Westmoreland. This is a wonderfully active industrial district, specializing in coal mining, iron, steel and kindred products as well as chemical, glass and clay-products industries. The widely diversified character of the power users, as well as the large amount of domestic and commercial loads, insures a continuous and dependable revenue to the company.

PROPERTY: The Company owns six electric generating central stations and leases a seventh, having in all an aggregate installed capacity of 190,430 Kw. (now being enlarged to 260,430 Kw.), 154 high tension sub-stations, 648 pole miles of high tension transmission lines (in addition to low tension distribution lines) and 61 miles of steel tower lines of 132,000 volt construction as well as many miles of pole lines and steel tower lines under construction. The fuel of the two largest stations—Windsor and Springdale—is supplied from mines adjacent and owned by affiliated Companies. The acreage so controlled will furnish the fuel supply for at least fifty years. These two stations are mine-mouth plants, there being no railroad transportation charge.

EARNINGS: Gross earnings of the Company are showing constant increases, having trebled in the last seven years.

DIVIDENDS: Dividends at the rate of 7% per annum have been paid on the Preferred Stock since incorporation. The Preferred Stock is followed by $11,100,000 present outstanding Common Stock. Dividends of not less than 6% per annum have been paid on the Common Stock since incorporation.

Nearly Four Billion Tons Of Coal in Somerset County

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Department of Forests and Waters announces that a 38 page bulletin on the "Coal Beds of Northern Somerset County, Pennsylvania," prepared by James D. Slader of the State Geological Survey, is now ready for free distribution.

This bulletin is particularly interesting because it is the first time any detailed information has been published on the coal beds of this district. Somerset county has 3,987,900,000 tons of reserve coal. Of this amount, 2,630,280,000 tons are in the northern part of the county. This area represents the largest reserve of low-volatile, high-grade steam coal in the State. The well-known Winter coals are located in this district.

The annual production of northern Somerset county is approximately 8,000,000 net tons. During the year 1924 the average value of this coal at the mine was $2.99 per ton. In that year northern Somerset county employed 13,122 men in the mines. These men averaged 173 working days.

The northern Somerset District contains at least eight mineable coal beds. The Lower and Upper Kittanning are the thickest and best beds, most of the present production coming from them. The coal is valued highly for generating steam and for domestic fuel. It is generally soft and friable, but stands transportation well. It is not sized but shipped run-of-mine. Most of the shipments go east to tidewater and north to the Lakes. The Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads use large quantities of Somerset coals.

The bulletin contains 36 analyses of various beds in different districts. The volatile matter ranges from 13 to 22 per cent; fixed carbon, 66 to 73 per cent; ash, 1.5 to 16 per cent; sulphur, .08 to 3 per cent. The British thermal units (the amount of heat required to raise one pound of water 1°) are usually between 13,500 and 14,500.

This bulletin is the result of many weeks of field work and an extensive study of drill hole records and vertical sections of coal beds submitted by various mining companies and private individuals in the district. This bulletin represents well the value of cooperation with the survey. Through the splendid cooperation of the people in this district, Mr. Slader has been able to incorporate in this bulletin practically all of the available data, making it a reliable guide toes, peppers and egg plants should be covered in order to save them from the first killing frost.

Grade the Apples—Damaged, scabbed, or wormy fruit should be kept at home and made into cider. The graded apples block the sale of good fruit and lower the price which the consumer is willing to pay for good fruit.

Hogging Off Corn—Don't turn the "porkers" into the cornfield until the crop is ready to cut and shuck. It is well to accustom the hogs to the new corn by cutting some stalks and feeding them a few days before turning in.

The National Dairy Show—A reduced railroad rate of a fare and one-half for the round trip from any point in Pennsylvania to the National Dairy Show at Syracuse has been granted by all railroads. Get your certificates from your county agent.

Value of Farm Manure—The average value of a ton of fresh manure is about $3.00. To prevent loss of part of its value, bed live stock well to absorb the liquid manure; if possible, haul each day's manure directly to the field, and don't pile it up in the open to have its fertilizer constituents wash away.

The Jungle Frock. Although the animal-applique gowns of a famous designer have made a sensation, a still greater one has been caused by the new Jungle frocks. The Jungle frock has not only applique animals, in silk, velvet and leather; it has also an applique landscape for their background.
